Washington's Value Wine Gets A Little Sweeter

WASHINGTON HILLS

Late Harvest

Washington Hills

Late Harvest Series

showcases the natural sweetness of classic Washington varietals by highlighting bright and balanced flavors. The sweetness in these wines is achieved naturally by stopping fermentation early, maintaining the natural sweet character of the fruit.

Winemaker

HAL LANDVOIGT

While working as a baker in college, Hal Landvoigt's fate was sealed when he was handed a glass of red wine at a party; inspiring his nearly 20 years in the wine industry. Hal has spent his last 15 years cultivating a passion for wines and training under some of the Pacific Northwest's leading winemakers. Continuing to expand his wine education, Hal has traveled extensively through some of the world's most famed wine regions including Napa, Burgundy France and Salta Argentina. He then joined Precept Wines, one of the Northwest's most established wine companies as Director of Winemaking. As winemaker for Washington Hills, Hal oversees the entire winemaking process from vine to bottle and enjoys the big, fruit forward flavor profiles for which the Pacific Northwest wines are best known for.
